NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Further Light on the Norway & Western.
Auburn, Me., June 9, 1909.
To the Editor of Advertiser:

I have recently received a marked copy of your valuable paper and read with interest the article from Sweden in regard to the projected railroad.
It is natural for man to want what he can't have, and it is so on this railroad question. To build a railroad requires first, capital, second, or perhaps first, line of importance, a country sufficiently rich in passengers and freight or great natural resources to make a road profitable.
Now stop a moment and think.
The top of Norway is the greater part of the stock of the Norway Branch. Norway with aid of back town shipment in freight, besides all the passengers taking the train from Norway station, has never paid the town a dollar for investment.

Several of the rural towns show only a small increase (some a decrease) in population over a decade ago, and it seems as if it would be to run it to Mars.
In future generations when the tide of agriculture turns to New England and farms and land now abandoned are again taken up; when the wealth of the soil must be moved in large quantities and the rural population is augmented, then your railroad will be possible, my more, you will have one.

Will the towns of Waterford, Sweden, Albany, Lovell and Stoneham dig down in their pockets and take the bonds of this railroad?
Don't do it gentlemen if you want to ever see your money again, or even the interest thereon.

Mr. Seitz knows something of the ways of the world and he is a man who would welcome advancement in his native state but is not a man to be silent and let a lot of wild cat schemers bleed you when they ask you to finance a scheme so crazy that the bonds they would issue would be too thin to make any baskets.
If this is throwing twigs it is in a good cause. CHARLES S. BARTLETT.

Something New.

Lake Pennesseewassee has at last got some public notice. Heretofore there have been only private camps, built principally for the owner's use, though a few have let them occasionally when they did not wish to use them themselves. Alex MacLellan has fitted up a camping ground especially for the public. His grounds are new and newly furnished. He has a motor boat and smaller craft. In short here is a place on Lake Pennesseewassee where one not owning a camp may hire one for the length of time he chooses.

A Large Attendance.

The Oxford conference of Congregational churches was held at Rumford Pt. on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Rev. A. S. Kideout and Mrs. George Holmes went from the village church and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Burt and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Holt from the Center church.
There was a large attendance and it proved to be a spirited and enthusiastic conference. The largest delegations were from Rumford Falls, Andover and Bethel. Some innovations were introduced which proved very helpful and interesting. The next conference will be held in October with Norway village church.

Price Webster's Comedy Co.

Manager Jones, of the Norway Opera House, has secured the Price Webster Comedy Company for the Fair dates, Sept. 14, 15 and 16. This will be welcome news to our people as Mr. Webster is deservedly popular, and can be depended upon for always giving a good, respectable performance.

The Old thorough-bred Concord coach which belonged to Sumner Davis and used to race between Norway and Harrison has been sold to C. D. Tarbox of Harrison, who has had it repainted and repaired and will use it to carry out pleasure parties. There are but few of these coaches in use now, and with its new coat of paint it makes a fine looking turnout.

The ladies' aid of the Baptist church met last week at the home of Mrs. Dora Tower. Arrangements were made for the "dollar school" which will be held the last Friday in June. Each member of the Sunday school ladies' aid or members of the parish who care to be requested to earn a dollar to be brought to the social and tell the manner in which the dollar is earned, in either prose or verse just as the "earner" desires. A pleasant social will be assured.

The Universalist Sunday school will observe its 75th Anniversary next Sunday. All the regular services of the day will have reference to it. The special service will be at four o'clock in the afternoon. There will be a historical address by the secretary of the school, Mrs. C. E. Ridlon. Old time songs will be sung and letters read from former officers and members of the school. The Paris Hill Sunday school will be present. An address will be given by Rev. C. A. Knickerbocker, belonging to A. Yeaton on Alpine street, was run into Monday morning, and had his leg seriously and injured. He was a brave little fellow, and started for home on three legs holding up a fourth, but could go only a short distance before he had to be down and rest. He had many sympathizers and his owners were telephoned for, but when a kind neighbor drove with him for him to take him home, it was found that the dog had found his friend. He was at one of the best physicians in town, having his wounds dressed. The neighbor waited and took him home.

Exhibition at the High School.

A large number of friends and relatives of the pupils gathered at the High School building, Monday afternoon, for annual drawing exhibition with exercises in the different grades.

The exercises opened in Harriet Craig's room, grade 3, where the children sang songs from the First Reader of the New Educational Music Course, in a very pleasing way. The drawings were placed around the room and on exhibition. In this grade color work, proportions, beginning with pose and drawing from nature, had been introduced with fine success.

In the 4th grade, May Chaffin teacher, the scholars sang the more advanced songs in the First Educational Reader. The drawings on exhibition were similar in aim as the 3d grade with the addition of rudiments of perspective drawing.

The songs in the 5th grade, Helen Akers teacher, were from the Silver Song Series, No. 3. In this grade the beginning of two part music has been taken up in the key of G, F, A and B flat. A canon in unison entitled, "Snow so Fair," and "Autumn Leaves" from Beethoven were nicely rendered, each keeping his part finely. The drawings were for detail work done in water color, pastel, charcoal and pencil, also geometrical designs in relation to color.

The 6th and 7th grades, Alice Gammon and Melvinia Green teachers, met in room 7. In these grades, three part music, soprano, alto and tenor, and eight reading in all the keys have been studied, and the young people very sweetly sang, "Still is the Night" and "A Lullaby."

In the 6th grade pose-drawings have been a special feature. Madeline Andrews has done some fine specimens in this line. They also have done work in silhouette drawing, in sepias tinting and winter scenes and spring flowers in pastel, as well as cover designs with printing.

In the 7th grade landscapes in water color have been studied and drawing in pastel, charcoal, pencil and wash drawings in India ink and sepias tints.

All assembled in room 9 where the 8th and 9th grade scholars sang, "God's Sentinels" by L. Gottschalk arranged from "The Last Hope" and "Soldiers' Chorus" from Gounod's "Faust" and others. In these grades four part music, soprano, alto, tenor and bass, has been studied this year and they were taught the recognition of musical effort through the sense of hearing and the reproduction of the same by the pupil. Attention has also been called to the voice quality, pronunciation and the interpretation of the sentiment expressed by the composer. They have also had written tests requiring written reproduction of phrases which were sung and dictated by the teacher; also with sight reading from Samuel W. Cole's "Songs without Words."

In these grades have been studied life drawing in charcoal, studies in proportion and form, talks on the antique, sketches from nature, the application of natural form to designs, wall paper designing. Marion Haskell's nature studies were especially good. The subjects being easily recognized. Marine views, Easter lilies and daffodils in pastel were good features of the 8th grade. The aim in teaching drawing in the schools is to train the eye and the hand so that the hand can express what the eye has seen in a true manner. The aim is not to make artists out of the pupils but to prepare them for careful observation and practical representation which will assist them in their life work.

In all grades tree study has been studied in relation to the different types of the evergreens and deciduous trees. The scholars in all grades have done fine work in their drawing and music. The music and drawing teacher, Annette Washburn, made the work interesting as well as helpful to the pupil and her work with the scholars the past year has been appreciated and a very successful term has closed.

We will give a list of a few of the scholars in each grade who did especially well in drawing:

Shall We Have a Hospital?

What Norway and Paris need is a hospital for the care of sick people who are away from home. A good many people come here from away to work and if they are taken sick it is almost impossible to get any one to care for them in the two villages. Could not Norway and Paris join in establishing a hospital?

Failing in this it seems that some woman with a home but not with much ready money as she wants could establish a good business by having the doctors send her those patients she could care for better than in the boarding house where they are sometimes taken sick.

Again if there is no one so situated or fitted as to do this there is a number of women and a few men in the two villages who are good nurses, while not graduate, professional nurses, who make good money going to their patients' homes and caring for them. Even more than we now employ in the hospital, as anyone who has tried to find one unemployed in a short space of time can testify. Let us hear what the people think about a hospital, and if advisable to have one the best means to get one.

Baccalaureate.

There was a large attendance at the Universalist church last Sunday morning, the occasion being that of the baccalaureate services to the graduates of the High School. The church was tastefully decorated and the school flags made a pretty display. The class marched in with Eldon Hall acting as marshal.

Rev. M. C. Ward, in the text, Prov. 2-5, "Incline thine ear unto wisdom and apply thine heart to understanding." This refers to the preparation for life worth while. Calling the completion of school a "commencement" is a term that study is but preparation for life. He spoke of the world's six greatest men, as Ian MacLaren named them, Homer, Socrates, Columbus, Capernicus, Luther and Moses.

He told of the confessions of men whose lives had been failures. For success we need the qualities of humility, high ideals, concentration, work, determined persistence, self control and loyalty to principle. These were illustrated by incidents from life. We need above all character in education, and education is idle that does not build character. Character is success.

The only great danger to you will be from within. Have only one fear, the fear of living. Live to help others, to do good in the world.

The class stood for the concluding words. Mr. Ward commended the work of the class. Reminded the scholars of their debt to their educators and their duty to the world to Christian civilization for free public education. The community providing the school has a right to expect much from you. The school comes close to you and gives you parting blessing. Make this motto: Do your best and trust God for the rest.

Imprisoned Neath a Rock.

Walter S. Buck is given to sinking into the ground and out of sight, and the aim in teaching drawing in the schools is to train the eye and the hand so that the hand can express what the eye has seen in a true manner. The aim is not to make artists out of the pupils but to prepare them for careful observation and practical representation which will assist them in their life work.

The June meeting of the Norway Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Smith, Tuesday. The house was prettily decorated with flowers, and the Flower Mission program prepared by Mrs. Smith, the superintendent of that department, was excellent. The reports show millions of bouquets with text cards distributed in our nation each year to the sick and suffering, and many a sin-sick soul has been lifted from darkness into light by the pure influence of God's beautiful flowers. The program consisted of readings by Mrs. Bartlett, Tower, Andrews, Barker and Miss Watson. Mrs. Barnes reported the convention at West Paris.

DOING THEIR DUTY

Scores of Norway Residents Are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidney's duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. Norway people endorse our claim.

Mrs. Julian Brown, living on Danforth St., Norway, Me., says: "I suffered from rheumatism for more than five years. I have been treated by physicians, and have taken a great many remedies in an effort to find relief. About three months ago I was reading the testimonials of different persons who had used Doan's Kidney Pills and decided to give them a trial. I went to Stone's drug store, procured a supply and took them according to directions. I am now using my sixth box and am steadily improving. Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me what no treatment or remedy has previously accomplished and I feel that it will only be a short time before I am entirely cured. I cannot recommend this excellent remedy too highly."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Roster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Servants Stay With Woman Who Knows Her Mind.

You rarely hear a woman complain of servants leaving her who knows what she wants, and insists upon it being done, and knows when it is done. The work in some households is like the prayer-chain: the one way to end it is to break away from it.

Servants are stayers in homes where their rights are regarded, and they are expected to regard the rights of others. It is as bad business policy needlessly to interfere with the cook's day off when a big dinner is on.

The woman who knows the holding power of a pleasant manner, a kindly smile, real interest in every member of her household, and kindly consideration for the paid members of her family, makes few visits to the intelligence office.

The mistress who is quick to wrath is equally quick to lose her maids. She who storms when things go wrong should not be surprised at the incessant going of her servants. Like unto a carpenter in adhesive qualities is that maid whose mistress never raises her voice over household tragedies.

The mistress who is quick to suspicion is as an earthquake in shaking up her domestic quietness. The servant who will stay when there is constant, though unspoken, doubt of her honesty, is doubtful honesty.

She who is quick to criticism and short on praise should not be surprised at the short stay of her maids.

A Death Bed Confession.
This is the story the newspapers are telling about a murder of a brownfield woman.

It is believed that the solution of the mystery surrounding the murder of Olive Broad in the town of Clinton on the afternoon of August 21, 1903, has been solved by the alleged confession, which a dying woman made within two months. This confession implicates a man, whose name, like that of the woman making it, is withheld for the reason that the manner in which the statement was made, renders it worthless for use in court.

Briefly the statement of the woman is that on a day of the murder she met the man by appointment. He knew that Miss Broad was to receive a sum of money amounting to about $200 during the day. They planned to rob her. As she came along the road the man stepped up behind the woman, struck her with a scythe snath, knocking her down. As the woman showed signs of recovering consciousness, the woman companion of the man stuffed her handkerchief into Olive Broad's mouth to prevent an outcry. Next the woman who married the confessor said she drew her revolver, a 22 calibre, and shot Miss Broad in the breast and then through the head. The bullet in the breast passed only through the clothes, not marking the skin. The one in the head killed the woman.

Teachers to Cooperate

With Forest Service in Tree Study.
Teachers throughout the country have been invited by the United States Forester to cooperate with the Forest Service in an effort to obtain more definite knowledge of the characteristics of the most important forest trees of the United States. To do this it will be necessary to obtain a large number of volunteer observers who will collect material on the time of leafing, blossoming, and fruiting of the various kinds of forest trees. In his letter inviting the cooperation of the teachers, Forester Pinchot says:

"Knowledge of this kind is greatly needed and will be of value from the stand point both of education and of practical forestry. For educational purposes the results obtained for each species, averaged and presented graphically by means of colored charts, will be available to all who are interested in the subject, and particularly to schools. They will form virtual 'tree calendars,' and will be valuable aids to nature study.

"Children can readily be interested in the actual work of obtaining records. This should form an attractive outdoor feature of the school work that should serve to develop the faculty of accurate observation, and at the same time to promote an interest in forestry which may lead to a better appreciation of its aims and methods. It may also prove to be a profitable addition to botany courses for older students.

"A study of this kind will be of great value to practical forestry, since the proper treatment of forests depends partly upon a knowledge of these characteristics of trees. For example, the time of year at which a tree leafs out and blossoms is one of the indications as to whether or not it is frost-hardy in a given region, and the length of time that a tree is in leaf indicates the growth it is able to make during the season. Knowledge of the time when seeds of each species ripen in various localities is of great value to those who are collecting seeds, since seed often deteriorates if eaten by squirrels and birds if not gathered and stored as soon as ripe.

"Another result of this study will be a more intimate knowledge of climate as manifested by plant growth, for differences in climate are shown by plant life as well as by instruments, and a preliminary idea can thus be gained as to whether a given region is suited to a valuable tree which it is desired to introduce there.

"Many such examples could be given, but sufficient has been said to show that the results of these observations will be a real help to practical forestry, in addition to their general interest and educational value. Volunteers will later be supplied with publications and charts containing the information they help to gather, as a return for the services rendered."

On request, the Forest Service will be glad to send forms upon which to record data and a pamphlet containing full instructions as to the nature of the observations and how they are to be made.

A wider interest in forestry. Teachers throughout the country have been invited by the United Forester to cooperate with the Forest Service in an effort to obtain more definite knowledge of the characteristics of the most important forest trees of the United States. To do this it will be necessary to obtain a large number of volunteer observers who will collect material on the time of leafing, blossoming, and fruiting of the various kinds of forest trees. Study of this kind will be of great value to practical forestry, since the proper treatment of forests depends partly upon a knowledge of these characteristics of trees, a knowledge which should be possessed by all who are interested in forestry, agriculture or both.

The Grand Trunk Railway System with their new organization in Europe have opened a fine suite of offices at 17-19 Cornhill street, London, one of the best locations in the city. It is just opposite Pall Mall and the majority of the traffic from Westminster and the West End of London pass through this thoroughfare to Piccadilly, Oxford street and the commercial sections of the Metropolis. Canadian who visit London will find these offices complete in every way and the Company are desirous of having all visitors from the Colonies make their headquarters in London their rendezvous, where they can have their mail addressed, make appointments and do their correspondence. This is an innovation of the transportation lines of the Colonies and no doubt will be taken advantage of by many overseas visitors to the Mother Country.

MY DEAR COUSIN,
I like them both very much, and see you this vacation. But I don't know as I can.

My school keeps four weeks longer after this week.

What teaches your school?
Miss Clark and Mrs. Curtis are my teachers. I like them both very much. I will tell you the names of the books that I study: geography, reading, arithmetic, grammar and spelling. I hope to hear from you soon. I will close now with love. Good bye. From your loving cousin,

BOLSTER'S MILLS.

A Local Sketch.

Said Clark to Scribner, "The train is too slow to get into Portland we want to go."

"You'll hire a man with an auto, and then in Portland we'll surely find."

An auto's the thing for me!
"Then our journey will be a real treat!"
"An auto's the thing for me!"
"Then our journey will be a real treat!"

My wife, as usual, at home will stay to care for the "speed" horse while I'm away.
She ever has saying and prudent been
So now I've the pleasure of speeding "the tin."

Next morning proved fair and very bright, and soon the auto was speeding from sight. No longer with horses and brass we'll find, An auto or ship is all right for us.

"An auto's the thing for me!"
"Then our journey will be a real treat!"
"An auto's the thing for me!"
"Then our journey will be a real treat!"

Also for cherished hopes of man!
Things did not work on the schedule plan;
When at last the hotel cable was cut;
The town clock pointed the hour of two!

"How hungry we are!"
When dinner and business at last were done
And we sat down to the dinner table;
But when many miles out from Portland town
Another tire burst—ho, ho, ho!

"An auto's an uncertain thing!"
Now a running horse, now a broken-down
Their number increased since began the drive!
For to the city the chauffeur must go
For needed repairs on the machine, you know.

"The electric does come handy."
The night was over the new well along,
When "Homes, Sweet Home" was again their song.
"Now scribner, 'Get home we must, this time we're going to 'get there' or bust!"

"If I have to go to the train."
But bust it was, with an ominous sound,
"So far from the city, what shall we do,
All our skill we use to repair it anew."

"Oh, for my speed horse!"
Oh, the trouble of sail and many a cry
Which in Clark's and Scribner's, make-up form a part!

The even of M. they make at twilight of day
Everyone said, "How Scribner's hair's turned gray!"
"Darn an automobile! Next time we'll go afoot."

SOUTH WOODSTOCK.

A Dance at the Garage.
The craze for automobiles has struck even this little hamlet. Alvah Andrews purchasing the second in the place. Of course this necessitated a garage and Alvah declared that he would dedicate it to a dance. So last Friday evening, neighbors, relatives and friends from far and near gathered at the neat little building.

Mr. Andrews's son Harlan whose 18th birthday it was, proved an able assistant in promoting a good time.
During intermission lemonade and fudge were passed by very efficient waiters and waitresses.
Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Selden Barrett, son and daughter of Summer; Edwin Mann with a party in his auto from West Paris and others from Sumner and Fryburg. Thirty-five couples were on the floor at one time, but in spite of the crowded condition of the floor and the necessity of the end couple having to stand in the doorway, only one couple lost their balance and came near making an undignified back-step. Neither did the crowd prevent some of the gentlemen from indulging in the good, old fashioned steps for the contras.
Harlan received several appropriate gifts in honor of his birthday and incidentally got his ears pulled.
